

XOXO

Jen,

You are the friend I have had the longest in my life. I don't know when we met and not sure when we really became close. I just know that when we were in elementary school together, I was always comfortable with you and I enjoyed spending time with you. I may not recall the firsts for us but I do love how when we do talk or see each other we pick up where we left off. No sensitive feelings of not keeping in touch better. We just know we must both try harder. Nothing awkward...it is like we live in the same neighborhood and see each other all the time. Your friendship is one thing I cherish most in my life. I hope you know how much I cherish you and our times together. There is no better day to let you know than on your birthday.

May your birthday be filled with love, laughter and happiness and a reminder that some of your best years lie ahead of you. Make the most of today and tomorrow. Have an awesome birthday!

Hugs! Love you!

Misty

p.s. Sorry, I forgot the card at home. Trim the ends of the tulips and they should perk right up.
